WARM HEARTS WILL WARM COLD HANDS AT OPEN DOOR MISSION THIS THURSDAY
1,080 pairs of winter gloves to be donated by local designer and his clients

Omaha, NE – In the wake of extreme cold and sub-zero wind chills, a local designer has secured 1,080 pairs of winter gloves to be donated to the Open Door Mission on Thursday, January 14, 2016.

Chip and Kelly Thompson, owners of Chip Thompson Design, an Omaha-based marketing and website design firm, recently learned that the Open Door Mission was in need of winter items, particularly gloves for men and kids.

“I contacted the Mission to see what they needed most. Then I put out a call to several of my clients, and in one day raised enough to buy the gloves. I love my clients and I love that they share my passion for helping others,” says Chip Thompson. “I also felt it was important to find a supplier that was local – part of our community.”

Militti Sales and Promotions, has agreed to provide the heavy-duty winter gloves at cost, which amounts to a retail value of over $8,600.

“Mike Militti was very gracious when I reached out to him and jumped into the project immediately,” says Thompson.

The other donors toward the project were: KreativElement, Bland Cares (Bland & Associates, P.C.), REDiTECH, Feltz WealthPLAN, The Key Group and KTech, all Omaha-based companies.

The glove-donating ceremony was held at 2:00 PM, January 14, 2016 at the Garland Thompson Men’s Center located at 2706 N 21st St E Omaha NE.
